Dr. R. NAGAN GOWDA.—How many schemes are there for disposal of sewage water ?

Sri T. SUBRAMANYA.—We have got a combined scheme and we want to have sewage disposal plants erected in two places.

Sri V. P. DEENADAYALU NAIDU.—May I know what has happened to the recommendation of the Committee to go into the question of putting up a sewage disposal plant ?

Sri T. SUBRAMANYA.—There are several recommendations made. They have said that we will have this plant in two places. There was some difference of opinion among the technical experts themselves. We have sent the scheme to the Government of India and we hope the Government will sanction it early.

Sri V. P. DEENADAYALU NAIDU.—Does this sewage treatment not come under the Grow More Food scheme and has not a certain amount been drawn from this fund for manure treating and manure preparation ?

Sri T. SUBRAMANYA.—So far as I am aware, the schemes are different. I do not know whether any amount has been drawn or not from the Grow More Food fund, but this scheme includes the growing of more food, treating water and cultivating about 1,400 or 1,600 acres in Agram.
